

SETON LASALLE

CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOL

CLASSICAL CATHOLIC CURRICULUM TRACK

Seton LaSalle students receive an education that integrates faith and reason as foundational principles for all subjects. There is no academic subject that is able to be taught divorced from the teachings of the faith or split off from the mind of the church. Ultimately to form students who are able to be faith-filled, productive, and responsible citizens, we believe they must study all subjects grounded in foundational Catholic principles and the habit of scientific and philosophical thinking that is most properly the mind of the Catholic.

To realize this vision, we have built our classical education track on the “Great Books of the Western World,” as well as the great fictional literature, fine arts and music, and prayers of Holy saints. These great works formed the minds of every educated person until the early part of the twentieth century, and today, they inform our students of the most significant thoughts and words that laid the very foundation of Western Civilization and served to develop it through the 20th century. We believe that our students cannot begin to understand the afflictions of today’s Western world without knowing the foundation upon which it was built and the ideas which allowed it to advance.
